

2024-2025 Dependency Override Request Form

Please review the following information BEFORE submitting a dependency override request form to our office.

Federal financial aid regulations assume that a student and their family have the primary responsibility for meeting educational costs. Dependency status is determined based on the answers to the questions in Step Three of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and dependent students must submit parental information.

What is a Dependency Override?

A dependency override occurs when a financial aid administrator exercises professional judgment and overrides the Department of Education's criteria for dependent students. An override may only be granted on a case-by-case basis for students with unusual & exceptional circumstances who can prove and fully document exceptional circumstances. This includes, but not limited to, students who have no contact with their biological parents.

Appeal Guidelines: You must clearly demonstrate an adverse family situation in order to be considered independent for financial aid purposes.

The following are some examples of conditions that could warrant a dependency override:

- Student has been a victim of domestic violence and no longer resides with parents;
- Student has been part of an abusive family environment (e.g., sexual, physical or mental abuse);
- Documented parental drug abuse;
- Documented abandonment, incarceration or institutionalization of both parents;
- Death of both parents (or death of only parent in a single-family household)

Federal guidelines stipulate the following conditions DO NOT solely qualify as circumstances meriting a dependency override:

- Parents refuse to provide information on the FAFSA application or for verification;
- Parents do not claim student as a dependent for income tax purposes;
- Parents unwilling or unable to contribute to student's education;
- Student demonstrates self-sufficiency;
- Student reluctant to request the income information from parents;
- Student does not wish to communicate with parents

In certain instances, a student may have extenuating circumstances that are not identified when completing the FAFSA. The following form gives a student the ability to appeal dependency status for reasons other than being financially self-supporting. The federal government does not recognize the amount of a student's income as a reason to consider the student independent. This appeal process gives the student the ability to state difficult circumstances that may permit a change of dependency status.

Please see additional information about dependency status at <http://www.fafsa.ed.gov>.
